INTRODUCTION

Established in 2004 by Daniel Barbera, BARBERA produce high quality Australian made and designed furniture. Based in Melbourne, our team of skilled artisans, technicians and designers use a range of classic materials such as marble, Bronze, steel, iron, leather, glass and timber to forge a refined aesthetic. Designed for use in domestic and commercial architectural spaces, our product ethos is focused around intelligent design outcomes and process orientated workings; fusing old industrial techniques with modern technology and high craftsmanship.

Over the last 10 years, BARBERA have been developing and refining a line of solid bronze hardware. With both beauty and pragmatism in mind, these handles, hooks and pulls, accent and elevate architectural spaces.

BARBERA create timeless designs with a focus on product longevity. Inspired by ancient civilisations, natural selection, and the desire to create objects that could last forever.

All Barbera pieces are hand made in Melbourne, Australia.

Working closely with our local bronze foundry whose craft spans more than a century.

Each piece is shaped by patience, knowledge and care - a quiet expression of time, skill, and respect for material.

“We love what we create”

ABOUT BRONZE

A Living Legacy: The evolution of a surface.

At Barbera, we don't view bronze as a static material. We embrace it as a "living" alloy.

Unlike modern synthetics that are designed to remain frozen in time, bronze breathes. It is in a constant silent dialogue with its environment. This transformation is driven by the copper within the metal reacting with oxygen - a process that forms fine layers of oxides upon the surface.

These layers subtly shift the metals hue, softening its shine into a rich, complex narrative of its surroundings.

The art of the Patina.

This natural evolution - the patina - is a thumbprint in history. No two pieces will age identically. Factors such as the humidity of a coastal breeze, the warmth of a room, to the touch of a hand influence the rate and depth of this oxidation.

We celebrate this characteristic through five distinct finishes. Each is designed to showcase the materials natural qualities as different stages of its life, allowing the pieces to grown alongside you.

Material Authenticity.

We consciously avoid permanent hard coatings like clear lacquers. While they offer a temporary shield, they eventually fail, making it more difficult to maintain and restore back to its desired finish. We believe in the honesty of the material; Any darkening or change in colour is the bronze expression its true resilient nature.

A History of Bronze.

Bronze is more than just a metal; it is a milestone in the human story. Discovered over 5000 years ago, its birth heralded the Bronze Age, a pivot point where humanity moved from stone tools to sophisticated craftsmanship. By alloying copper with tin, our ancestors created a material that possessed a rare alchemy: it was stronger than pure copper more fluid than stone, and far less brittle than the steel that would follow centuries later.

For five millennia, bronze has been the medium of choice for the enduring. It has been forged into ritual objects for ancient temples, cast into weapons of legends, and tuned into the resonant souls of musical instruments.

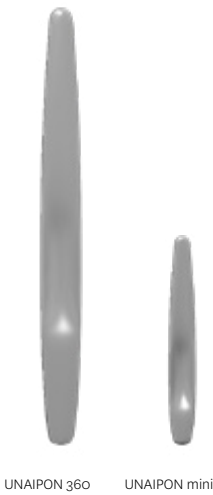

Today, that same legacy continues. From the salt-sprayed components of marine vessels to the soaring lines of modern architecture, bronze remains a material of unparalleled strength and organic beauty.
